Evan Kasper takes on management of US business at Medici Living

Berlin, 7 July 2016. Evan Kasper is the new US Managing Director at Medici Living. In this role, Kasper is responsible for expanding the US market for co-living projects. Medici Living already operates a property for shared flats in Los Angeles, and others are planned. Medici Living runs the world's biggest platform for completely digitalised marketing of living space. The company is already active on the German market with co-living properties in Berlin, Hamburg, Munich and Frankfurt am Main, and it also has a project in Amsterdam. Evan Kasper will report to Ferdinand von Fumetti, co-founder and Managing Director of Medici Living.

"We are delighted that in Evan Kasper we have found a manager with an excellent network and industry experience for our US market entry. Mr Kasper will conclude contracts for the first project developments in our target markets of Washington DC, New York and Los Angeles in the near future, as well as identifying additional markets," comments Gunther Schmidt, founder and CEO of Medici Living.

Evan Kasper has moved to the company from CBRE Management Consulting, where he was most recently responsible for strategic optimisation of customer portfolios by way of value-based management. He specialises in the areas of strategic consulting, change management and process optimisation. Using modern property management methods and marketing solutions, Kasper achieved sustainable cost savings. "As a result of his activities at CBRE, Evan Kasper has contacts throughout the whole country, giving us excellent access to the market," says Schmidt with confidence.

Kasper obtained his Bachelor of Business Administration in Finance at Southern Methodist University in Dallas.
